broken? Is there any human right violation? Is there any patient right violation?
Is there any contradiction with the patient charter? Has the patient constitutional right been violated?

In this reflective essay I described the case, attempt to reconcile truth with facts, use Gibbs model to structure, use critical reasoning to elucidate aspects of the case, analyze the theme discuss some concerns, elaborate on some point, use references as evidence of the profession body of knowledge and close the essay with some pertinent conclusions. I hope to meet these objectives including what were my response as a student nurse, how did I cope with the case ,did I use any evidence base principles and rules, did I adhere to my obligation as a student nurse, where did fail to response appropriately, what steps have I taken to remedy the situation if it arise again.

The resolution of the issues
The issues to resolve

For me to resolve: On that placement I: witness an incident where a citizen loss his life, participated in that incident as a passive observer, did not object to the acts of the nurse assisting the surgeon and prevent the surgeon from doing what he did, that made me a wilfull aider and abettor in what the law 272 would assume to be criminal. It is first degree murder. But that cannot be right because there is consent signed by Mr Lee Gino. Still that could be construed as manslaughter. There was no charge against me, the nurse,the surgeon and the hospital.
For the community to resolve: after that incident a mother became a single parent family. There are organiation in the community that helps with this.
For the professions to resolve: The student nurse, the nurse assisting the surgeon and the the surgeon were not involved in any disciplinary hearing whatsoever. Nobody knew the cirsumstances surrouding the death of Mr Lee Gino.
For the Jurisprudence to resolve:The Social Security act of provided, the legal aid act provided, the Nursing council act says, the medical nursing council act provided these solutions
For the Mentor to resolve: As mentee I discuss this as a scenario for clarification, Mentor was very intersted about this scenario
For the Administration to resolve: The paper work did not show any improper conduct, an uneventful day. Had it been on paper there would have been an uproar. None happened.
For the family of the patient to resolve: To su[pport the grief or ae4k help with bewithyou ltd for comfort
For Religious organization to resolve: Could provide temporary sustenance until the social servive take the matter in their hand.
For any other organization to resolve: also The incident wasburried with Mr Lee Gino, it was also burried in my mind for ever.

Feelings
Emotions

"Feelings I did not feel good about what had happened that day and I never will and never did. I did not like it, I wanted to go home. I wish I was not there I was tensed up agitated. It was nauseating. The charge nurse was not that upset, the surgeon was indifferent.. I did not dare make any comment, My tongue was stuck in my throat. There was probably better jobs than that I thought. What kept me going though is this principle, 'Give it a or so week,the memories the emotions will begin to fade into oblivion. Faded away the usually did and by next Monday I will be in the best job ever and happy having join the nursing profession. That is my mantra, One week and the sun rises again brighter on the nursing profession. But the mind cast bad memories on slates that resists
